

Brandon Dwayne SANDERS v. STATE of Arkansas

CR 07-196

253 S.W.3d 460

Supreme Court of Arkansas
Opinion delivered March 15, 2007

APPEAL & ERROR — MOTION FOR RULE ON CLERK — ATTORNEY CANDIDLY ADMITTED FAULT. — In accordance with McDonald v. State, appellant's attorney candidly admitted fault; therefore, the motion for rule on clerk was granted.

Motion for Rule on Clerk, granted.

Justin B. Hurst, for appellant.

No response.

PER CURIAM. Appellant Brandon Dwayne Sanders, by and through his attorney, has filed a motion for rule on the clerk. His attorney, Justin B. Hurst, states in the motion that he admits responsibility for failing to timely file the record.

This court clarified its treatment of motions for rule on clerk and motions for belated appeals in McDonald v. State, 356 Ark. 106, 146 S.W.3d 883 (2004). There we said that there are only two possible reasons for an appeal not being timely perfected: either the party or attorney filing the appeal is at fault, or there is "good reason." McDonald v. State, 356 Ark. at 116, 146 S.W.3d at 891. We explained:

Where an appeal is not timely perfected, either the party or attorney filing the appeal is at fault, or there is good reason that the appeal was not timely perfected. The party or attorney filing the appeal is therefore faced with two options. First, where the party or attorney filing the appeal is at fault, fault should be admitted by affidavit filed with the motion or in the motion itself. There is no advantage in declining to admit fault where fault exists. Second, where the party or attorney believes that there is good reason the appeal was not perfected, the case for good reason can be made in the motion, and this court will decide whether good reason is present.

Id., 146 S.W.3d at 891 (footnote omitted). While this court no longer requires an affidavit admitting fault before we will consider the motion, an attorney should candidly admit fault where he or she has erred and is responsible for the failure to perfect the appeal. See id.

[1] In accordance with McDonald v. State, supra, Mr. Hurst has candidly admitted fault. The motion is, therefore, granted. A copy of this opinion will be forwarded to the Committee on Professional Conduct.

Motion granted.
